THE SOILS OF HAWAII

Paper Read by Prof. Maxwell before Planters' Association.

ANALYSES OF VARIOUS KINDS.

Climatic Effects on Cane Throughout the Islands—Elevation and Rainfall Treated in Connection With Growth. Product of Sheltered and Low Lands.

Following is an abstract of the report on soils, read by Prof. Walter Maxwell during the first day's session of the Planters Labor and Supply Company:

The study of soils is a subject which requires to be divided into several lines of observation. First, there is the chemical composition, which is shown to us by the processes of the laboratory. These processes include the determination of all the constituents present; the measure of availability of those special constituents with which plants cannot live or grow; the presence of the bodies that are injurious to the health of crops; and the trial, by experiment, of means and methods whereby the essential elements of plant food may be brought into a better state of use and the poisonous compounds rendered harmless.

Again, there is the geological branch of the subject, which means the examination of the formations and rocks for which our soils have been derived. And in relation to the soils of these islands this branch of inquiry is of primary importance; for while the soils of adjoining plantations may closely correspond in chemical composition, their relative fitness to grow crops, which may be termed the state of maturity of the soil, will vary with their relative ages, the one being derived from an eruption which occurred at a time outside our computation, and the other from a "flow" whose date is preserved by the traditions, and even by the memories of living men. Moreover, there were the physical conditions, such as temperature, under which those eruptions took place. The full significance of these phenomena in the history of the formation of our soils I do not, at present, pretend to comprehend.

Further, we have the different climatic conditions under which our soils are forming or were formed. Not only do the islands vary in their respective receipts of rain, the conditions on the same island differ in as great a degree. On the upland or "mauka" lands the soils are forming under comparatively lower temperatures and greater falls of rain. The lower or "makai" lands have a higher heat, but the rain is notably less. The effects of these differing conditions will probably appear to us in the eliminations as we proceed.

Now, in looking over these several lines of observation which make up the study of soils it is seen that while one part of the investigations is conducted in the laboratory, a comprehension of the whole work involves in addition exact and extensive observations in the field. Therefore, when our institution was established in April of this year the first act was the fitting up of the laboratories, after which I went out to the islands, inspecting each plantation, at the same time taking and sending in samples of soil for examination.

In proceeding to the review and interpretation of the analyses which have so far been made, I will explain that there are two uses which the analytical data are required to serve: First, the immediate practical purpose of enabling fairly correct advice to be given concerning fertilizing and the treatment of soils.

This is a subject of detail, and concerns each individual plantation in matters of personal communication with this bureau. Secondly, the furnishing of information by the understanding of which we may come to some knowledge of the soils of the Hawaiian Islands as a whole. We are dealing with soils of volcanic origin, and there are volcanic earths upon most divisions of our globe. Just now, our crater is still; but soil materials are at this moment pouring forth from the lips of Vesuvius. They are the same internal forces of the earth which to-day are operating in Italy, and possibly next year will be active on Hawaii. And the soils finally produced by these operations, although differing in composition, are formed under the same physical conditions. Consequently, the knowledge we obtain for the use of these islands may be directly available for the use of other parts of the world.

These conditions, however, impress us with the scope of the undertaking, and require that we shall not proceed with our theories in advance of the actual work. I therefore shall limit myself now to a presentation of the work of the laboratory up to this date combined with observations in the field.

At this point Professor Maxwell went into a most exhaustive discourse upon the soils of the islands, showing also the salutation of the soils to the climatic conditions, by which quite new truths were brought to light. Upon the rainfall his words were as follows: On all the islands the variation of rainfall is co-incident with the changes in elevation. Without doubt, then, the greater rainfall is the means of the vaster vegetation, and this vegetation the cause and seat of the higher nitrogen content of the high.

In the light of these observations upon the nitrogen contents of the makai and mauka lands we can now return to our first table of results and find an ample explanation of the different amounts of nitrogen found in the soils of Oahu, Maui and Kauai. On Oahu our plantations rest almost exclusively upon makai lands. As a result, one sample of soil from Ewa gives the lowest nitrogen on our record—0.073 per cent. Waianae soils show less than 0.1 per cent. When we move round to the windward side of the island the nitrogen in the soil rises with the increased fall of rain and the beginning elevations of the land, as at Heala, where the nitrogen in the soil is 0.270 per cent. On Kauai are found similar conditions. The lowlands which form the plantations in the district of Kekaha and Mana contain on an average only 0.1 per cent. of nitrogen, whilst soils from the mauka lands of Kealia and Kilanai, with the windward exposure and more rain, are found to contain 0.321 per cent. On Maui are extremes of conditions yet more illustrative. Spreckelsville, whose lands occupy the isthmus which ties together the two great crater mountains of Maui. There are still remnants of reefs underlying the soil in places, and in one place, where coral chips were found mixed up with the surface soil, the lime content of a sample analysed was 7.52 per cent., and which are very little above sea level and the rainfall only about twelve inches per year, are notably poor in nitrogen, the mean of five soils being 0.116 per cent. In the Hana district, where the rainfall on the highlands is very considerable, the average of ten mauka soils taken at elevations of from 400 feet to 900 feet, showed a nitrogen content of 0.635 per cent.

These considerations show us that the difference in the nitrogen given in the table of averages of the three islands is a matter of elevation and rainfall upon each of the islands, and no indication of a difference in composition of the soils of the islands regarded as a whole.

After this Dr. Maxwell proceeded to speak of the so-called mechanical state of our soils, drawing attention to completely new features in the study of soils. He then referred to the climate in its probable relation to the sugar production of the islands in the following words:

CLIMATIC EFFECTS.

To the explanations which have been offered of the causes of differences in the productiveness of the low and upper lands, the matter of temperature must be specially added. I am impressed that the temperature of our islands is one of the most important factors—constituting the ease with which sugar is produced here. Soil is important, and water is important, but these two factors make miserable results in the absence of the true sugar climate. We see this even on these islands. Cane on our dry, low lands upon the sheltered sides of the islands, with enough water, very much surpasses the windward crops; and on the uplands we know that it is quite a question of elevation, for if we go high enough the cane actually refuses to mature. Probably it is the evenness of the temperature and the absence of extremes (I have noted my thermometer vary in its maximum summer readings only between 83 and 85 deg. for a whole month, and for ten consecutive days reach 84 deg., and the minimum readings behave in the same way, and going down to about 75 degrees), which is the significant feature. High day and low night temperatures are not favorable to even growth, whatever the effects of these extremes or inactivity may be. With evenness of warmth the cell production in the cane structure is continuous and uniform; and, from some mild examples on these islands, we have learned that climatic variations stop growth, make long and short joints, contract the short joints so that the circulation of the juice is almost stopped, upon which impure juices follow, with high amounts of gums.

I am with the present knowledge of the soils, quite unable to find an adequate reason for the magnificent productiveness of these islands outside of the vitally favorable nature of the climate. If this is the truth, it is a fortunate truth; for we may feel reasonably sure that climate is a property which will not become exhausted.

In this beginning of the work of our institution we have already learnt something of the nature of our soils, and of the original similarity in the composition of the soils of the islands as a whole. The differences, we have observed, are mainly between upper and lower lands, and these differences are caused by distinctions in elevation, exposure, or briefly, by climatic conditions. We have seen that these climatic differences operate, on the one hand, in causing the accumulation of organic nitrogen in the upper lands by means of the vaster vegetable activity. These observations will not only aid in laying the foundations of a thorough study of the soils of these islands, they must guide us in the matter of fertilization, which merely means the supplying and restoring of elements of plant food which were never there, or have been lost. Before we can supply or restore, it is clear that we must first know what these wants and losses have been and are.

The Health Office was displeased at Mrs. A. Francas' mode of obeying the sanitary regulations, and Judge Perry fined the lady $10 and costs yesterday. Notice of appeal was given.

ROYALTY ON A CRUISE

Italian Warship Cristoforo to Visit Honolulu.

ON A TOUR AROUND THE WORLD.

A Brief Description of the Cruiser. Entertainments and Receptions in Honor of the Officers of the Ship Throughout the Australian Colonies.

News was brought by the Miowera that the Italian cruiser Cristoforo Colombo would visit this port early next month on a cruise around the world. The Sydney Morning Herald of November 4th, speaking of the cruiser's visit there says:

Two years ago Italy's navy amounted to 22 armored ships and 54 unarmored, against France's 75 armored and unarmored 118, Germany 34 and 59, and Russia 48 and 62 respectively. These were the statistics the year (1893) following the completion of the Italian cruiser Cristoforo Colombo, the smart-looking corvette which may now be seen lying off Farm Cove with her rakish bark-rigged masts and double funnels. It is no seldom that an Italian warship favors Sydney with a visit that it was no surprise yesterday morning to find a great many visitors inspecting the vessel. Of course the first business was to salute the port, then the reception of the consul took some time, and afterwards a great many of King Humbert's subjects paid their respects to his majesty's representatives aboard the cruiser. They were received and entertained by Captain Bertolli and his officers. One of the latter is Prince Luigi, Duke of Abruzzi, a son of the late Prince Amedeo, Duke of Costa, who was a son of the present king of Italy. Prince Luigi is one of the lieutenants, a young man of about 23 years of age. The cruiser is making a twelve months' trip round the world, and has already been out from Venice several months, during which time she has visited India, Ceylon, and the Straits Settlements. She first made Australia's coast at Albany, where she stayed a day or two, and next called at Adelaide, Melbourne and Hobart. While at Melbourne many official visits were paid, and the Italian residents held high carnival in connection with the event. The Melbourne Club entertained the Prince and the captain and officers, and conferred upon them honorary memberships, a courtesy which was followed by the other clubs in the Victorian capital, both French and German. Several garden parties signaled the event of the Italian ship's presence, and the stay at Melbourne, as indeed also at the other ports, was yesterday mentioned on board as being perhaps the most enjoyable incidents of the trip.

Of the vessel but little need be said. She sits uncommonly well on the water, her graceful lines showing to advantage. In size she is larger than our Auxiliary Squadron ships, but smaller than the Orlando, and though steel built is an unarmored vessel. Her speed under forced draught is fourteen knots, but her officers state, and her heavy spars quite bear out the opinion, that she can under canvas alone log twelve knots. Her full complement is nineteen officers and 225 blue-jackets and marines. The dimensions and armament of the vessel are: Length, 248 feet 5 inches; beam, 37 feet 1 inch; depth, 18 feet 8 inches; displacement, 3400 tons. She carries six 4½ inch B. L. guns, four six-pounder quick firers, besides some smaller weapons. She is commanded by Captain Alessandro Bertolli.

Minister Smith Heard From.

Attorney-General Smith, now in New Zealand, has been interviewed by the papers in regard to the system of land laws in vogue there. He states, among other things, that the Republic, after an examination of all the land systems of the world, has selected the New Zealand one as embodied in the Acts of 1892-3 of that country.

The Hawaiian official is being shown many courtesies in the land of the kangaroo. Minister Cooper stated last night that he had received nothing from the Attorney-General by the Miowera.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

Only a Few Members at Last Night's Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hawaiian Amateur Athletic Association last evening brought together less than half a dozen members of the various committees. The members of the club appear to be lacking considerably less in enthusiasm than formerly, and each meeting's attendance is smaller than the preceding one. The boys need a waking up, as there is plenty of room in Honolulu for athletic entertainments. It is hoped that members of the association will show a little more spirit in the future and arrange some sort of contest that will please the public.

The only business last night was the auditing of bills amounting to $60 incurred in bringing about the last football game. The amount taken in at the gate was $114. There was some talk of having a big field day on January 17th, the anniversary of the establishment of the Provisional Government, but no definite conclusion was reached.

Guilty of Embezzlement.

The Cowan embezzlement case came up before Judge Perry yesterday morning for decision. Cowan was accused of embezzling 25 cents in money and $17.65 in goods while in the employ of Mrs. Ida C. Patterson. Judge Perry found the defendant guilty and sentenced him to three months' imprisonment at hard labor and to pay costs of trial. Notice of appeal has been given and the defendant released on $500 bonds.

The defense offered no testimony in the lower court, preferring to plead before a jury.

GUNS FOR THE ARMY.

Two New Twelve-Pounders Received by the Aloha.

Among the cargo brought by the Aloha were two twelve-pounders Driggs-Schroeder field and landing guns. They were delivered at military headquarters and will be unpacked and placed in position today.

This gun is 2.76 inches calibre, has a length of bore of 25 calibres, weighs 350 pounds, and fires a shell weighing 12 pounds, using 1½ pounds of powder and attaining a muzzle velocity of 1350 feet per second. The shell is designed with a large cavity to secure effective mining power against field works and efficiency against barricades. The bursting charge is 13 ounces.

The gun is mounted on a field carriage weighing 910 pounds, and is fitted with recoil attachment, permitting a recoil of about four inches directly in the line of fire and independent of the recoil of the carriage itself. This is a point of vital importance, owing to the excessive jump of such a light gun firing a projectile of the weight used in this one. Mounted on the old style carriage, the resulting jump would destroy accuracy, but in the carriage used with this gun the recoil in the line of fire permits the projectile to leave the muzzle before the carriage begins to move.

Fixed ammunition is used with the gun, the suitable kinds being common shell and shrapnel. The gun is fitted with the very latest design of Driggs-Schroeder breech mechanism, the simplicity of which may be comprehended when the fact that it contains but twelve parts is stated.

CIRCUS IN TOWN.

Wirth's Performers to Open Business Next Thursday.

Wirth's Pacific Circus, made up of twenty-three performers, seven horses, trained animals, tent and necessary appurtenances came by the Miowera yesterday. The show has been in Samoa for two months, and is spoken of by the leading papers as being the best ever seen there.

The vacant lot on the corner of Fort and Beretania streets has been secured by the circus company. Work will be commenced this morning on the ground, preparatory to the erection of the main tent, 100 feet, at the top. Manager J. J. Cameron, an experienced showman and as genial an agent and gentleman as one meets with, hopes to have everything in readiness for opening Thursday.

Wirth's circus is not claimed to be a second Barnum, but they promise to give an entertainment worthy of the name, and one too about which there will be no discontent. A preliminary announcement is made by the company this morning.

William Beil, a Scotchman, died very suddenly at Bay View Saturday morning. He had been afflicted with dropsy for several years. Deceased was 60 years of age.

SKETCH OF REV. GARVIN

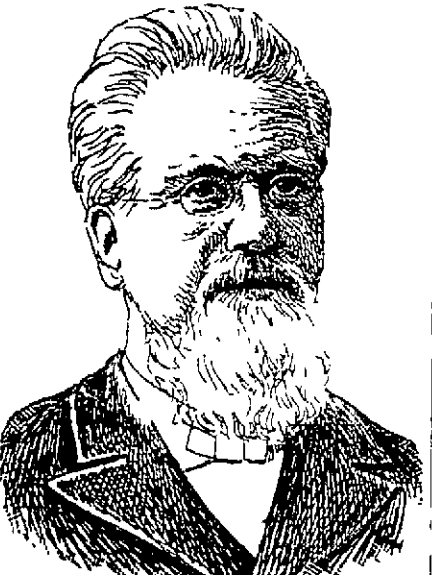

Excellent Career of a Self-Made Man

VICISSITUDES OF EARLY LIFE.

Has Made Many Friends During a Short Sojourn in Honolulu—Preaches the Gospel Without Fear or Favor—Sermons Models of English Diction.

In Tuesday's paper of last week an illustration of the new Christian church, with a detailed account of its furnishings, was given. This morning is presented a portrait and brief life-sketch of its pastor, Rev. Thomas D. Garvin.

The subject of this sketch was born in the city of Pittsburgh, Pa., of sturdy Scotch-Irish parentage; his ancestors of one or two generations previous having been Seceders and Covenant-ers (Presbyterians), were driven to escape religious persecution from the south to the north of Ireland and from there they found their way to America. At the age of nine years Mr. Garvin went with his parents to live on a farm, where his boyhood days were spent in the arduous avocations incident to agricultural pursuits in those days, when a majority of the machinery with which farm work is done now was unknown.

Before reaching the estate of manhood he received from his dying father the legacy of a growing family of brothers and sisters to be clothed, fed and educated. It was a gloomy outlook for one ambitious to obtain a mental training, his chances to get an education seemed slim, indeed, especially as it was not thought necessary to educate, generally speaking, beyond a degree comprehended in "the three R's"—"reading," "ritin" and "rithetic"—and the higher education of which so much is heard nowadays, was a dream of the remotest possibility to one who was dependent on his own efforts for schooling. It is not strange under these adverse circumstances that between the ages of twelve and nineteen he had but six weeks' schooling. In his twentieth year he spent six months at college, and then again came a period of years when the care of the family left to his charge brought a cessation in his pursuit of knowledge.

At twenty-six he married, and still continuing his studies, was matriculated at Bethany College, West Va. in his twenty-ninth year, pursuing the course for two and a half years. From here he went to Miami University in Butler county, Ohio, and took the prescribed course of study of that institution, graduating and receiving the degrees of A. B. and A. M. and later the degree of A. M. from Bethany College also. Shortly afterward he was elected President of Franklin College in Athens county, Ohio, which position he ably filled for five years; then severing his connection with this institution he accepted a call to the pastorate of the Sixth street Christian church of Cincinnati, Ohio. Here he remained two years. Then moving to Columbus he organized the first congregation of the Disciples in that city and remained as pastor two years; thence to Elyria, O., staying five years. Then coming to California he devoted his time largely to the building up of weak churches that were unable to employ pastors.

It was during a three years' pastorate in San Francisco that he built the Twelfth street Christian Church of that place, but the damp climate not agreeing with him, he went to the southern portion of the State, where he engaged in his chosen vocation of organizing and building up churches, the last of these churches being at Pasadena, where he gathered a flourishing congregation and built a handsome and substantial church edifice.

In the pulpit Mr. Garvin is of commanding presence, his sermons are models of English diction, diction, pithy and being usually delivered extempore, have all the power which usually accompanies addresses given without manuscript. His theology is vigorous, a heritage for which he is doubtless indebted to the Presbyterian auspices which attended his early years and gave him his launch in the theological arena. He believes the gospel to be the panacea for all the ills of humanity and "declares the whole counsel of God" without fear or favor, and with an impressive earnestness which carries conviction

During a residence of a little over one year in this city, Mr. Garvin has made many warm friends among all classes of society, and is to be congratulated upon the eminent success of his work in such a short period of time. Much success is bespoken for his labors in this city.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

A Bill to Be Introduced by Representative Barham.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The Sun's Washington special says Representative Barham of California said today: "In my opinion the Nicaraguan canal question will be the most important matter brought to the attention of the next Congress. I have drafted a bill which I will introduce to provide for the construction of this canal, which I think will not be open to objection. My bill will provide for absolute government ownership of the canal. Under its provisions bonds will be issued as fast as necessary to carry on the work of building the canal. The total issue of bonds is not to exceed $100,000,000. I believe in paying the Nicaraguan Canal Company a fair price for their concessions on Nicaragua and Costa Rica, and paying them in cash or stock, as they select. I do not believe in giving them any exorbitant sum, however, for what they have already accomplished. If the United States does not build this canal it will be the laughing stock of the world."

A STORY FOR MOTHERS.

Which May Save the Lives of Their Daughters.

A Young Lady Saved When Near Death's Door—Her Illness Brought About by Ailments Peculiar to Her Sex—Only One Way in Which They Can be Successfully Relieved.

(From the Ottawa Canada Citizen.)

Perhaps there is no healthier people on the continent of America today than the residents of the picturesque village of Merrickville, situated on the Rideau river, and the reason is not so much in its salubrious climate as in the wise precautions taken by its inhabitants in warding off disease by a timely use of proper medicine. The greatest favorite is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and many are the testimonials in regard to their virtues. Your correspondent on Monday last called at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. Easton, and interviewed their daughter, Miss Hattie Easton, a handsome young lady of 20 years, who is known to have been very low and has been restored to health by the use of Pink Pills. "Yes," she said, "I suffered a great deal, but I am so thankful that I am once more restored to health. You have no idea what it is to be so near the portals and feel that everything in life's future is about to slip from your grasp and an early grave your doom. I was taken ill four years ago with troubles peculiar to my sex, and which has hurried many a young woman to her doom—an early grave. I have taken in all about twenty boxes of Pink Pills, and I am only too glad to let the world know what these wonderful little pellets have done for me, hoping that some other unfortunate young woman may be benefitted as I was. When sixteen years of age I began to grow pale and weak, and many thought I was going into decline. I became subject to fainting spells, and at times would become unconscious. My strength gradually decreased and I became so emaciated that I was simply a living skeleton. My blood seemed to turn to water and my face was the color of a corpse. I had tried different kinds of medicines, but they did me no good. I was at last confined to my room for several months and hope of my recovery given up. At last a friend strongly urged me to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after using a few boxes I began to grow slightly stronger. I could not find words of sufficient weight to express my appreciation of the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and sincerely hope that all who are afflicted as I was will give them a trial and I am certain they will find renewed health."

The facts above related are important to parents as there are many young girls just budding into womanhood, whose condition is, to say the least, more critical than their parents imagine. Their complexion is waxy in appearance, troubled with heart palpitation, headaches, shortness of breath on the slightest exercise, faintness and other distressing symptoms which invariably lead to a premature grave unless prompt steps are taken to bring about a natural condition of health. In this emergency no remedy yet discovered can supply the place of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which build anew the blood, strengthen the nerves and restore the glow of health to the cheeks. They are certain cure for all troubles peculiar to the female system, young or old. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by HOLLISTER DRUG CO., wholesale agents for Hawaiian Islands and all dealers in medicine.

Forty-eight Men Drowned.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A dispatch from Hongkong to a news agency says that while the launch of the British warship Edgar, containing twenty-one men, was returning to the ship with reefed sails in a heavy sea and strong wind, she capsized seven lengths from the ship and all but twenty-three of her occupants were drowned. This is undoubtedly another version of the report received from Yokohama a few days ago of the loss of the Edgar's launch with forty-eight men.

The wife of Mr. D. Robinson, a prominent lumberman of Hartwick, N. Y., was sick with rheumatism for five months. In speaking of it, Mr. Robinson says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that gave her any rest from pain. For the relief of pain it cannot be beat." Many very bad cases of rheumatism have been cured by it. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by all dealers. BENSON SMITH & Co., agents for H. I.

MEETING OF HISTORIANS

But Little has been Accomplished During Past Year.

VALUABLE PAPERS PROMISED.

Letter Read from Mr. Castle Concerning Beliefs of Captain Cook—Good Report of the Treasurer—Officers of Old Board of Managers Re-elected.

The annual meeting of the Hawaiian Historical Society was held last Friday in room No. 3, at the Y. M. C. A. hall. President Dole presided in the absence of Hon. W. R. Castle.

Prof. Alexander, the corresponding secretary, read his annual report, showing that owing to the political and sanitary disturbances of the year little had been accomplished. He announced the titles of several papers promised for future meeting of the season. He read a letter from Mr. Castle, giving some account of the family of Frances Wardale, a cousin of Capt. Cook. She came to Philadelphia with her husband in 1773. A daughter married William Stevenson; his grandson, J. M. Stevenson is now living in Pittsfield, Mass. The many relics connected with Capt. Cook once in possession of the family disappeared at the time of removal from Philadelphia, with the exception of a set of eight volumes of Cook's voyages, published by Strahan and Cadell, 1773-1784; also, a large engraved portrait of Capt. Cook, from a painting by N. Vance; and a colored coat-of-arms with the motto "Nil Intestatum Reliquit."

The treasurer, Mr. G. P. Castle, read his report, from which it appears that the receipts from membership fees were $221, from other sources $63.01. Expenses were $230.20. Now in bank to the credit of the society, $301.30.

Miss Burbank, the librarian, in her report stated that the Hawaiian books have now been catalogued and the pamphlets arranged for cataloguing. Frequent calls are made for papers and annuals of recent years, and to be available these should be bound. A more complete collection of current publications should be secured.

The officers of the old board of managers were elected to serve another year. Ten new members were elected and five new corresponding members. Two papers were read. One was contributed by Mr. M. G. Gower, of New Haven, giving reminiscences of his voyage to the islands in 1858-9, subsequent residence here and incidents of travel in those early days. The other was from Miss Teaira Heury, giving a graphic account of Tahiti, its location, products, people, worship and amusements, which it was voted to publish.

It was also voted to bind the newspapers in the society's collection. It was also voted to purchase the volumes most needed to add to the society's catalogue. It is hoped to print this year a full catalogue of the society's library.

BACK SAFE AND SOUND.

Board of Health Party Had to Embark Leeward of Molokai.

There was a great deal of genuine alarm throughout the city Sunday morning when it became known that the steamer Ke Au Hou, with the Board of Health party on board, had not arrived. Various were the conjectures as to the cause of the vessel's delay, many of them being of a highly sensational nature, and which now that the steamer has returned safe and sound, were most improbable and without the semblance of possibility.

Government officials were, perhaps, more anxious than others, unless it was relatives of those included in the party. After some deliberation it was deemed advisable to send a steamer out to ascertain the cause of delay. At 9 o'clock the Mikahala, which had arrived but a few hours before, was dispatched for Molokai to render what ever aid was found to be necessary and bring the belated travelers back to Honolulu.

As the day wore on and no tidings of the first and last named steamers were received, much genuine anxiety was felt. At 7:25 o'clock last night the Diamond Head lookout reported the Ke Au Hou in sight, and five minutes later the Mikahala, both vessels arriving and docking shortly afterward, when everything and everybody was found well. The delay was caused by a heavy swell from the north, which prevented embarkation at the regular landing on Molokai, the party having to climb the palm and leave from Kaunakakai, on the leeward side of the island, from which place a start was made for Honolulu at 3 p. m. Sunday afternoon.

The Ke Au Hou did not see the Mikahala until about 4 o'clock, for the reason that she made around the opposite side of Molokai and the Kalapapa landing.

HERE'S A GOOD THING.

L. B. Kerr to Give Away a Fine Piano.

Giving things away seems to be all the go in Honolulu at the present time, but when it comes to offering something that is useful L. B. Kerr, as usual, takes a prominent place in the front rank. Commencing today, that enterprising merchant will offer a fine $350 piano to the person guessing the number, or nearest to it, of seeds in a pumpkin. Every purchaser of goods to the amount of $5 will be entitled to one guess. If $10, $15 or $20 worth of goods are bought you can have two, three and four tries at the pumpkin. The question will be settled on New Year's day, and all those desiring to get an excellent instrument for home decoration and improvement will do well to make a start this morning and lay in a supply of good goods, fresh goods and stylish goods, of which Kerr has a large and varied stock. It would take too long to tell about everything that he carries, but when the statement is made that anything can be secured in his store, from a pin to a complete furnishing of a house, as well as all kinds of silks, satins, dress goods, dry goods, hats, millinery, in fact anything that can be called for in dress and dry goods line that covers it.

VISIT TO LEPER SETTLEMENT.

Board of Health and Party on Semi-Annual Trip.

The Board of Health made their semi-annual trip to the leper settlement Friday p. m. in the Ke Au Hou, President Waterhouse being in charge. The party left the Inter-Island dock at 9 o'clock, and was made up of some thirty-five persons, President J. T. Waterhouse, Acting Attorney-General Cooper, W. L. Wilcox, Doctors Day, Emerson, Capron, Russell, Cooper, Pratt, Ryder, Hebbitt (of the Bennington); Kellipio, Agent Reynolds, J. D. McVeigh, Professor Richards, Miss Kate Field, H. Waterhouse, Secretary Wilcox, Bishop of Panapolis, four lay brothers who go to labor at the settlement, Father Panthille (who succeeds Father Conrad), Miss Bessie Reynolds, Rev. Waiamau, A. W. Carter, Mr. Musick, representatives of the Star, Bulletin and ADVERTISER.

The capacity of the steamer will be taxed to care for the large party aboard, but sufficient quantity of bedding for all hands was taken along. Dr. Wood and T. F. Lansing did not accompany the expedition, both gentlemen having made the trip before.

J. M. Vivas and J. M. Teixeira were sentenced by Judge Magoon Saturday to pay fines of $50 and $25 respectively. The men were found guilty of criminal libel by a jury last Friday. Notice of appeal was given, the defendants being released on bail and given thirty days in which to file a bill of exceptions.

When most needed it is not unusual for your family physician to be away from home. Such was the experience of Mr. J. Y. Schenck, editor of the Caddo, Ind. Ter., Banner, when his little girl, two years of age was threatened with a severe attack of croup. He says: "My wife insisted that I go for the doctor, but as our family physician was out of town I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved her immediately. I will not be without it in the future." 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers. BENSON, SMITH & Co., agents for H. I.

SHARPSHOOTERS PRACTICE.

Friendly Contest Among Members.
Shoot Next Week—Gold Medals.

The Sharpshooters were out in full force Saturday afternoon to shoot a friendly match among themselves. There was more than usual interest taken in this match, for the reason that the three teams shot on the handicap allowance as arranged for the gold medal contests which will begin in January.

The first team of ten scored 412 points. The second summed up with handicap allowance 422 points, and much to everybody's surprise the third team averaged 44.8, or a total of 448 points.

A member of the handicapping committee accounted for this large difference by pointing out a few "unknown quantities" in the third team which surprised even themselves. He acknowledged that the committee should have worked out the averages by algebra, instead of arithmetic.

After the match-shooting at 200 yards was over, practice at the 500-yard target was taken up by some for the first time. This practice will be continued next Saturday. A week later the movable target will be in order and some great sport is expected by the wing shots. Evidently the Sharpshooters are quietly at work and mean to be an efficient body of men.

HAWAIIAN HORSES ABROAD.

Burlingame Ruled off Bay District for Pulling Amarino.

From all accounts, the Hawaiian horses are not doing very well at the Coast. Those who ought to know say it is owing to the way in which they are managed, while others are just as certain that the horses are not in it a little bit with those of the Coast. Be that as it may, it is a sure thing that the owners of Autonomy, Lolokalani and Amarino are not making a fortune out of their venture. In the opening race—five and a half furlongs—at the Bay District track on November 15th, Autonomy, with Burlingame as jockey, started ninth and finished in the same place, betting opening at 10 and closing at 40 to 1.

In the third race, six furlongs, Amarino, ridden by Burlingame, started fifth and closed in about the same place. The betting opened at 30 and closed at 2 to 1. There was a fierce rush to get aboard in third race at six furlongs. Amarino showed good form, but was frightfully ridden by Burlingame, which is construed to mean that the horse was pulled. It is said of the Hawaiian horses that they cannot get in and win when the odds are big, and invariably lose the races they ought to win.

Burlingame was ruled off the track and heavily fined for pulling Amarino. That jockey has had a great deal of trouble with the management of the Bay District track, and he will likely do most of his riding at Ingleside in the future.

SHARPSHOOTERS CONTEST.

Weekly Competition for Six Months for Gold Medals.

At their last monthly meeting the Sharpshooters Company was divided into first, second and third classes, according to average in shooting. Beginning January 1st competition will commence and continue for six months, each class competing among itself for a gold medal—the highest individual score in each class will receive the medal; each member to shoot ten consecutive scores of ten rounds each during the term of competition.

The average score (44.8) made by W. E. Wall since June, was taken as a basis for handicapping in all of the classes. A contest will take place each Saturday afternoon.

Today three teams of ten men each will meet in friendly competition at the association range, each member shooting ten rounds.

Capable Young Man.

Will T. Dorrance, a capable newspaper man, is connected with the local staff of this paper during the absence of W. H. Coney. Mr. Dorrance lately arrived here from the Coast, where he has been doing excellent work on several of the papers there. The young man is also business manager of the Time, Honolulu's pioneer pictorial journal.

Lecture on Hawaii.

Rev Dr. R. S. MacArthur, who spent a few weeks in the islands on his tour around the world, has returned home after a five months' trip. He is to give a "round the world" course of lectures at the Calvary Baptist Church, New York. The first lecture, on "The Hawaiian Islands, the Paradise of the Pacific," was to be given November 20th.

Runaway Without Damage.

L. C. Ables had an experience with a fractious horse Saturday afternoon that would have resulted seriously had not that gentleman shown extremely good presence of mind. The animal, recently received from the Coast, being somewhat spirited became unmanageable while being driven along King street, near Waikiki turn, and started to run. Mr. Ables wrapped the lines around his hands, and constant pulling on the reins rendered them partially useless. The horse, hitched to a surrey, dashed along the road, barely escaping collision with several wagons and carriages; but Mr. Ables held to the reins and managed to keep the runaway animal to one side of the road until the end of King street was reached, where the horse was gotten under control. No damage resulted.

Coffee Planters' Reunion.

The second annual reunion of the Hawaiian Coffee Planters' Association was held at Mountain View House, Olua, last Saturday evening. A large number of people attended, many being present from Hilo and surrounding districts. After dancing till near midnight to the music of an excellent string band, a sumptuous repast was served. The occasion was a success and greatly enjoyed. The Board of Tax Appeal had another sitting Saturday afternoon. No cases of great importance were considered.

A Good Entertainment.

The entertainment of the Young Hawaiians' Institute deserved a larger attendance than was present at the Y. M. C. A. hall Saturday evening. The affair was for the purpose of raising sufficient funds to enable the Institute to start a library. The music was a rare treat and those that attended spent a very enjoyable evening. The program was under the able direction of Prof. Berger.

Woodward Gets One Year.

Edward Woodward, a young man who has been before the courts on a serious charge, was sentenced by Judge Magoon Saturday to one year at hard labor. Woodward was given an opportunity to escape punishment by marrying the young lady in question, which he offered to do, but the girl positively refused, fearing that the young man would not treat her right after marriage.

Died Suddenly.

A horse dropped dead in front of the Hobron Drug Company early Saturday evening. Its owner, M. E. Silva, rode up to the door of the store and went inside to make a purchase. While he was doing so the animal suddenly reeled and fell over dead. It is not known what caused the death of the horse. Mr. Silva purchased the animal but a few days before for $150.

Tax Appeal Cases.

The court of tax appeal heard testimony in the cases of one native, one Portuguese and four Chinamen yesterday afternoon. All the complainants pleaded that they were taxed excessively and asked for reduction. The six cases were submitted and a decision will probably be reached today.

Nineteen members and probationers were admitted to the First Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday. A reunion meeting of members and probationers will be held next Sunday morning. The church is prospering in every sense of the word.

The American Minister and Mrs. Willis will hold a reception in honor of Consul-General Mills and Mrs. Mills on Thursday, December 5th, at 4 o'clock, to which the public is cordially invited.

CONCERT AT KAWAIAHAO.

Large Audience Enjoy an Evening of Genuine Pleasure.

The pupils of Kawaiahao Seminary entertained a large audience at the school last evening. An interesting and attractive program of character songs and musical solos was rendered. The hall was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting and the stage was almost buried midst a mass of flowers and evergreens.

The girls of the school, clad in white garments and bedecked with bright flowers and wreaths, occupied seats on the side of the hall and made a very imposing picture.

"Ave Maria," sung by the entire school, opened the exercises and was followed by a number of well-rendered Cradle songs, each of the young ladies being attired in costumes of different nations.

The English matron, represented by Miss Violet Lima, received a great deal of applause for explaining in song how she would take care of her infants.

The American-Indian mother, as Miss Nellie Kahula was termed, created a great deal of amusement by appearing on the stage clad in an old red blanket and bedecked with feathers. She hung her pappoose to the limb of a tree and rendered her verse in a voice that any Indian woman would be proud of.

The other natives were represented by the Misses Lillian Pihl, Annie Kealoha, Fui Jin, Eliza Keliiaa, Sarah Aea, Dorcas Aikue, Emma Hauaika, Julia Archer, Tillie Previre, Hattie Ayau, Hattie Kealoha, Ella Quinn, Lucy Leleo, Carrie Nakapuahi, Flora Smith and Annie Akamu.

The "Star's Ball," "The Butterfly" and "A Harvest Song" were sung by classes of children and the entertainment closed with a piano duet by Miss Violet Luna and Miss Hattie Ayau.

The girls showed a great deal of musical ability, and Miss Gillam and her assistants deserve praise for the manner in which the exercises were conducted.

PSYCHOLOGY OF REVIVALS.

A close examination of the conditions at Kalaupapa cannot fail to impress the visitor with the fact that the people of this country are far in advance of all others in their attempts to solve the problem of the proper method of dealing with those diseased unfortunates who, at the present time, have no hope of recovery. Segregation has its fearful and pathetic side, and, at the same time, it may be regarded as a blessing to those who fall victims to the disease. When allowed to mingle with the people of the country they are constantly shunned, and the terrible features of their conditions are as constantly brought vividly to their minds. When separated from the outside world, however, they form a little world of their own, where every member meets on a common ground and all that is possible is done to care for their bodies and divert their minds from the misfortunes of the life.

As an evidence of the literary freedom of Russia it is stated that as many as 10,242 books were published in that country last year and over 32,000,000 copies were prepared for the market. One-tenth of the books were of a religious character and nine-tenths belonged to the other departments of literature. Eight-tenths of the output was published in the Russian language and the remainder, in the other languages used in Russia including Hebrew. The Russian censorate is very strict in the examination of works on politics or economics, but gives the wide berth to scientific writers. In other words the Russian can say anything and spread any theory or practice he likes, so long as he does not touch the established principles and customs of the ruling authorities. With all this latitude, however Russia has not become noted for its scientific and literary production, but has been thoroughly advertised by its politicians. This is but a proof of the old adage that if it is desired to bring a people into publicity, persecute them.

On Monday the Fifty-third Congress of the United States opened its session in Washington with a political complexion changed to such an extent that it will receive the closest attention from the people of the States and this country as well. In the House the Republicans have a majority of about one hundred and forty, and they will form a numerous body in the Senate, though they do not constitute a majority. Meanwhile the executive power remains in the hands of the Democrats. The question naturally arises whether Congress will be content to dispose of routine legislation during the incumbency of Mr. Cleveland, or will wait until his retirement before embarking upon legislative schemes upheld by the opposing political parties. Experienced members of the dominant party give it out that there will be very little done except that which comes under the head of "necessities." Appropriation bills will, of course, be passed and possibly a few measures having a political bearing, but the narrow margin by which the control of the Senate is held, it is highly probable that no measures of a partisan character will be passed. Owing to the near approach of the election, however, there will, doubtless, be plenty of partisan argument, with attempts by both factions to place their opponents in a disagreeable position before the country. Hawaiian affairs will undoubtedly figure prominently in the discussions of the hour, but the possibility that positive action will be taken, except on cable matters, seems at present decidedly improbable.

W. D. Howells discussed the subject of social equality to considerable length in the November Century taking for his text the remark of a Shaker elder that if good society were what it appeared to be on the surface there could be no fault found with it. If people in society would behave toward one another from motives of real kindness, as they behave now from motives of politeness, society would be the image of heaven. The trouble is that their behavior is merely a convention and not a principle.

Discussion of the efficacy of revival services is conducted in many places during this enlightened age, but it is seldom that the camp meetings and "protracted" meetings are studied from a psychological standpoint as has been done by A. D. Watson, M. D., in the October number of the Canadian Methodist Review. The object of the article is to point out what is often too true, that certain phenomena brought out in some revival meetings where the physical and psychical conditions are favorable, are not only useless but dangerous, and are not to be attributed to piety, but to physical weakness or mental perversion. The doctor believes that these "unwholesome manifestations" have from ignorance as to their nature, been absurdly attributed to the agency of the Holy Ghost. The "unsaved" subjects, whose chief tendency is to "yield" and with whom no powerful motive is required, he characterizes as negative characters. Passivity renders them strong under the stimulus of extraordinary and commanding minds, but is a source of weakness when such stimulation is withdrawn. Any action, either orally, mentally or physically, while in a highly sensitive condition is regarded as physical stimulation, and those whose tendency is to act under the inspiration derived from outward demonstrations are liable to act and re-enact the old farce of being converted at every revival and relapsing during every interrevival period.

"Excessive outbursts of feeling, manifested in hysterical proportions, almost invariably occur among persons of an excitable temperament, among those of weak will, or those of a debilitated physical constitution. Given a number of such persons in a series of meetings, and if the evangelist should appeal chiefly to motives of fear or to the intensely emotional part of the sensibility, rather than to urge the case mainly upon its reasonable and righteous grounds; if the evangelist have a powerfully magnetic and commanding presence, and insist on certain forms without clearly defining that obedience to the Lord, rather than the mere performance of the evangelist's desires, constitutes duty; further, if it be understood or surmised that there would be general approval of any exceptional occurrence, such as prostration or highly wrought or excited movements, these demonstrations are pretty sure to occur. A decisive and positive attitude should be encouraged on the part of the hearers toward the Christian life, and no evangelist should allow any hearer to think that standing up, or speaking, or going forward, is in any sense meritorious if done simply to please him."

The time was, when the revivalist that could make the most noise and stir up the greatest religious excitement was looked upon as the most successful religious worker. Of late years however the Protestant Church has come to realize the sound sense in the remark of Archbishop Sharp: "The peace and joy in the mind of the man that feels it, which foundation is a good conscience; a being able to satisfy ourselves from the testimony of our hearts and lives that we are sincere and unfeigned in our desires and endeavors to approve ourselves to God as his faithful servants."

GOOD SOCIETY FAVORS EQUALITY.

W. D. Howells discussed the subject of social equality to considerable length in the November Century taking for his text the remark of a Shaker elder that if good society were what it appeared to be on the surface there could be no fault found with it. If people in society would behave toward one another from motives of real kindness, as they behave now from motives of politeness, society would be the image of heaven. The trouble is that their behavior is merely a convention and not a principle.

they behave beautifully from politeness and not from kindness. Mr. Howells says he was struck with the philosophy of the statement, but he finds that although society is the stronghold of the prejudices which foster inequality, it is at the same time the very home of equality. He believes that the ideal of society is equality, because to the more enlightened, inequality is offensive and irksome. "Your soul is always seeking the level of your companions, and society formulates and expresses this instructive desire of equality." Furthermore, the good quality of society is determined by the degree with which formality is shunned and ease and freedom is sought. One of the strange features presented by the facts of daily life is that many people should fear the greatest blessing of good society and will not allow its greatest charms to be imparted to the whole of life.

"Men have believed that there was something to be gained by setting themselves apart from other men; and they have actually at times believed that those whom they excluded and depressed believed this, too, because they suffered it. But the inferior never believed, even in the depths of slavery, that inequality was a gain to him, whatever it might be to the superior, and he suffered it because he must. It never was a gain to the superior except in some advantages of food, clothing and shelter. The disparity between the different sorts and conditions of men is not without its supposed remedy even in our conditions. The well-known American theory is that all having the same chance to get on top, all will get on top. If this really happened we should have the dead level of equality indeed; but a great many do not get on top—so many of the gentle, the kind, the good, that it may be questioned whether the summit would not have its displeasures for people of taste, whether one would altogether like to be seen there. It appears that this specific no longer cures, then; and if inequality is a malady, an evil, we must seek some other medicine for it. What that will be many will be ready to say, but few to prove. Perhaps we shall be changed by the slow process of the years, and by a process no more visible in the present than the movement of the hand upon the clock, but destined to a greater and greater swiftness in the future."

The essential features of the suffrage clause of the South Carolina constitution which has elicited such fierce discussion are as follows: After January, 1898, no man will be entitled to register and vote unless he can both read and write any section of the constitution or owns and pays taxes on property assessed at $300 or more, while up to January, 1898, all male persons who can read and write any section of the constitution, or understand or explain such section when read to him by the registration officer, shall be entitled to vote and shall remain during life a qualified elector. Northern papers are making more or less noise over the property qualification, but their opposition is based on the hope of making political capital rather than common sense. All through the States the sentiment against manhood suffrage is steadily on the increase. A man that cannot read and write and cannot get together $300 worth of taxable property ought not to be in a position to jeopardize the interests of the intelligent property-holding voters. The objectionable feature is the section which places the voter in the hands of the registration officer. If all registration officers were above being influenced in their decisions by the color of the voter, this provision would undoubtedly result beneficially. It is highly probable that this portion will be declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court.

AT GAZETTE OFFICE.

HE NAMES HIS TEXT.

The Hawaiian is out again with its usual tale of woe. It is unfortunate that its editor has taken up his residence in a place so full of wicked men, especially missionaries. He looks out over these fair islands, and now sees, what the elder Bingham saw in 1820, when he landed here, nothing but wickedness, wickedness—why the Lord has permitted such an over-sensitive soul, throbbing with agony at the sight of evil, to remain on this earth so long, we cannot understand. His place is not here, but with the purified, where there is no sin and sorrow. To leave him here, among erring mortals, to suffer, in intense agony, because wrong exists, is the one great outrage of the century. To say that a dose of fat "boodle" would toughen his soul is only an insult to a purified spirit. He is here to make us all better, wiser. His example, in every aspect of life, is put before us as that of a sinless character, and we ought not to spurn the splendid gift. "Madame", said the tramp to the farmer's wife, "these premises are the worst I have ever seen, but—if you can hand out half of a mince pie I may be able to reconstruct my ideas. I am destitute of bigotry." The editor of the Hawaiian is no tramp. He takes high ideals and goes so far as to point to the Lord's prayers as his text for a horribly, high-minded monthly sermon.

To read the text and then the sermon reminds one of the man who frequents a Chinese opium joint and tells his friends he is reveling in the purified atmosphere of Mount Tantalus. His friends hear what he says. In modern times almost any construction can be placed on Biblical utterances, but a study of this sermon indicates that the editor of the Hawaiian makes an interpretation that beats anything thus far produced. The magazine ought to become the official organ of a "new church" founded by the editor—but we pity the church.

The need of an inter-island cable has again been emphasized in the non-arrival of the steamer Ke Au Hou from Molokai on Saturday night, as planned. While no one anticipated any mishap to her, a cable message would have made known the cause of detention and removed the necessity for sending out a steamer to ascertain why she was detained. This occurrence suggests that the laying of the inter-island cable might be effected before that of the long span between Hawaii and the continent. The work attending this section can be done in a few days, whenever the cable is ready for it, and with a small steamer, without waiting for the completion of a long line.

Prof. Mahan states in his biographical account of Earl St. Vincent (Jarvis), who was the predecessor of Nelson in command of the English fleet, that Wolfe, who defeated Moulcaten on the heights of Abraham, Jarvis, and Cook the navigator, who was killed on Hawaii, were young men and intimate associates, and that Cook, who was master of the fleet, had special charge of the pilotage of the St. Lawrence river at the time the attack was made on the heights.

KINDERGARTEN NOTES.

FOREIGN KINDERGARTEN.

I found here thirty-two children, marching to spirited music. They had just been told a Thanksgiving story of a little girl, who with her dollie in her arms, had come with her parents on the Mayflower to New England. Of the kindness of savages in giving them corn to plant and of their sufferings from hunger and their joy on the arrival of a vessel bringing food. The children made paper boats naming them "Mayflower."

PORTUGUESE KINDERGARTEN.

Found forty children, very lively, and ready to sing and march. The building seems to me at least a poor one and the grounds are damp and low. A poor place for little children!

HAWAIIAN KINDERGARTEN.

The children looked clean, bright and happy. They were engaged in making cats with wires and working them on paste board with worsted. They too had listened to a Thanksgiving story.

CHINESE KINDERGARTEN.

We next visited the Chinese Kindergarten where we found thirty jubilant children, drinking sweetened water after a real party, with refreshments consisting of bananas, guavas and candy in a tiny tea-set. The children's happy faces and bright costumes made a very charming picture. Their gestures too were very voracious, in some cases almost tragic. They sang in good English "Blacksmith Song" (Anvil Chorus), "Bird Song," etc. There was such an abandon of happiness in the little children, it was a joy to see them.

JAPANESE KINDERGARTEN.

Bright, clean, orderly, with every black eye fixed on their teacher, who spoke and sang good English, and whose discipline was excellent. The children sang "Cobbler's Song" with all the more zest that they had recently visited a real cobbler. Teacher told them of a Japanese kindergarten child whose father had just died. They showed much sympathy, and promised to bring each of them five cents tomorrow, when the teacher, with two pupils, will buy a pair of shoes for the bereaved one. They then sang "Give, said the little stream." The marching was excellent, children keeping step by means of the clinking of the bell-tongue. I saw the children building gates of blocks, teacher using terms "right-hand back block," left-hand same, "lower," "upper," "on top." One little boy not understanding these expressions, the teacher very patiently and kindly showed him his right hand, then, without touching the blocks, led him to find the right ones. It was a bit of scientific teaching. A. H. T.

An Important Office.

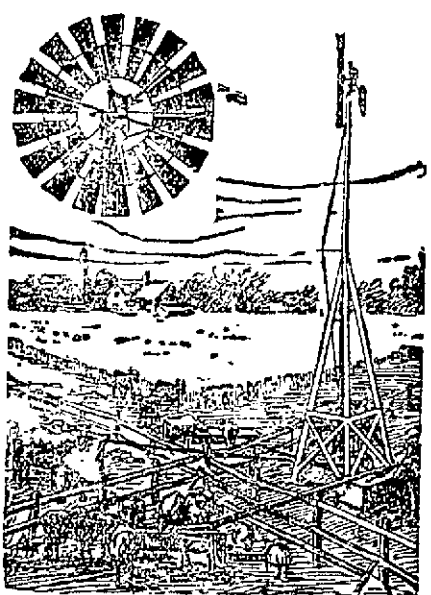

To properly fill its office and functions, it is important that the blood be pure. When it is in such a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of its various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs bring on consumption. The only way to cure this disease is to purify the blood. The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the disease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood, removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsaparilla do this but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system, making it possible for good health to reign supreme. HOBBS DRUG CO., wholesale agents.

THE AERMOTOR

AND Steel Tower.

In as much as most of our remarks have been confined to the pumping Aermotor we wish to call your attention this week to the geared motor for barns. Undoubtedly some time in the past you have concluded to equip your mill with shafting for grinding of corn and feed for your stock, and perhaps attach a grind stone and buzz saw, and sent away for a catalogue for estimated cost and the location of your building for horizontal and vertical shafting, but finally came to the conclusion that the cost and difficulties of constructing were too great to warrant the expenditure. Now here is where the Aermotor does away with all those great obstacles and petty annoyances. In our plan you have only to secure the vertical 8x8 mast in position, put the Aermotor on one end and the grinder on the other. The mast then holds it all. You can belt to different machines and drive your pump and feed grinder at one time. The feed grinder is always in position. You have only to turn a hand screw to adjust the lower grinding ring sufficiently close and it is already for use, or in an instant you can put on a belt to run any other machine. The saving of power effected by having all bearings rigidly connected in one casting and therefore in proper place, is no less important than the matter of convenience allowed too. The Aermotor runs in half the wind required by other mills, and regulates in a strong wind as well as in a mild wind. It handles the pump the smoothest of any mill made. An eight inch stroke Aermotor will throw more water with less wind than any of the old style mills. If you are in need of a mill buy an Aermotor and your neighbors will congratulate you on your foresight.

CAPTAIN PRATT WEDS.

Pleasant Occasion at Pearl City Last Night.

The home of Mrs. Torbert at Pearl City was tastefully decorated last evening, the occasion being the marriage of her daughter Ellen to Captain J. W. Pratt, Rev. D. P. Birnie officiating.

A number of friends of the bride and groom took a special train on the Oahu railway last night at 7:10, reaching the place an hour later.

Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dillingham, Major and Mrs. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kibbling, Mr. and Mrs. Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. The crowd listening to the concert lost all interest in the music in consequence, but luckily no one was hurt.

Catholic Mission Destroyed.

SYDNEY (N. S. RIGHT ROYAL GREETING.

Reception to New Pastor of Waimea, Kauai.

Mrs. Morrison's Novel Address of Welcome Excellent Musical Program. Religious Work Progressing.

MAKAWELI (Kauai), Nov. 27.—"Bellevue" the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison of Makaweli plantation, was the scene of a pleasant reception given in honor of the new pastor of the Waimea Foreign church on Friday, November 22d. The entire district was represented, some having come long distances to meet the new clergyman, whose arrival is welcomed by all in the district.

After the introduction of guests Mr. Morrison made a few appropriate remarks and called upon Mr. Omsted to open the program for the evening with a piano solo. This was followed by a violin solo by Miss McGrew, Miss Beyer accompanist. It is seldom Makaweli people have the privilege of listening to two such artists as Miss McGrew and Miss Beyer, and the music of this evening will long be remembered here.

The recitation of "Charley Latham's Pard" by Mrs. Scott had a good effect. Following this was a solo by Miss Beyer, with violin obligato by Miss McGrew, the able rendering of which brought forth a Scotch song as an encore. Next was a selection from "Essay on Self Reliance" read by Mr. Peroy; then a piano solo "Kammanoi Ostrow" beautifully executed by Miss Beyer. Mrs. Ogg then delighted the guests with a reading "True to Brother Spear" followed by a vocal solo, "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes" so well rendered by Miss McGrew as to call forth enthusiastic demands for an encore.

The next item on the program was a reading by Mrs. Morrison, the popular hostess, who on this occasion completely eclipsed all her previous records in originality. Before proceeding, Mrs. Morrison as an excuse, for not having had time to finish her paper, and which only wanted the addition of a few adjectives, called upon her guests to shout out, each in their turn, a simple adjective, which she filled in, in the blank spaces of her reading, a few extracts from which are quoted below: Ladies and gentlemen, not very long ago on the "silly" island of Kauai in the "stupendous" district of Waimea, the "spicy" people lost their "sharp" minister, who was a "prodigious" man, and whose departure was deeply regretted by all the "breezy" subscribers. Word came to our "beautiful" secretary, that the "kind" trustees' call had been accepted by the Rev. Mr. Massey, who would be with his "terrible" people soon. We were afraid that the "vicious" cholera reports and the "tiny" quarantine regulations might delay his coming, &c. &c. The rest of this original reading was equally comical and was brought to a close, by the hostess offering in the name of all present a cordial and hearty welcome to the new pastor, expressing the hope that this work would be pleasant and so successful, as to leave him no possibility of regret at leaving his late charge.

"Chanson D'Amour," by Miss McGrew and Miss Boyer, with violin and piano, was a beautiful finish to the list of items on the program.

The next twenty minutes were taken up enjoying the delightful ice cream and cake, coffee and sandwiches, so bountifully supplied. Before bringing to a close one of the most enjoyable evenings spent on the "Garden Isle," each of the guests received a numbered card with a separate slip of paper, on which was the name of an animal of which the owner had to make a sketch on a blackboard put up for the occasion. The name of each quadruped sketched had to be guessed and added to the card supplied, prizes being offered for the two whose cards represented the highest number of guesses. Two prizes were also presented to the unlucky pair who possessed the cards with the least number of correct guesses. The result was Mrs. Scott, first lady's prize, Mr. Baldwin, first gentleman's prize; Mrs. Perry and Mr. Hodges, booby prizes. The usual Makaweli "farewell" was sung before the guests began dispersing.

A large congregation assembled the following Sunday to hear Mr. Massey preach his first sermon in the Waimea Foreign church. The religious work in the district, for another year, has been successfully started, and it is hoped the interest will increase as the weeks glide along.

The Reason for Advertising

Advertisers use the Advertiser because they get profitable results from their advertising in it.

They know, also, that each one pays a like price for a like service.

Advertising space is not given to one house in order that it may act as a decoy duck for others.

TOUR OF INSPECTION.

Board of Health Makes Its Tour to Kalaupapa.

PEOPLE HAPPY AND CONTENTED.

Catholic Brothers Begin Their New Work—Thoughtful Care of the Unfortunates—Inspecting Party Surrounded—Obliged to Climb the Hill.

For events extraordinary, combined with experiences of a decidedly unusual character, the semi-annual inspection of the leper settlement by the Board of Health on Saturday takes the palm from any previous expedition of a similar character. Whether there was a Jonah on board or the elements conspired to give Miss Field and other members of the newspaper fraternity something out of the usual line had not been decided when the Ke Au Hou reached port with all hands well and happy at a little after 8 o'clock last evening.

The trip up to the settlement on Saturday evening was a very quiet one so far as the action of the steamer was concerned, and if it had not been for the shark stories of Senator Waterhouse and Judge Wilcox there would have been very little of particular interest to mark the first part of the journey. It is stated on good authority that Prof. Musick is seriously considering abandoning his book on the islands and taking up the subject of sharks. The steamer proceeded slowly and arrived off Kalaupapa about 2 o'clock in the morning. A shower set below those who had been making a desperate attempt to sleep on deck, and all hands turned out to tell stories and drink coffee. Long before sunrise lights began to make their appearance about the settlement, giving evidence that the people were up and about to prepare for their guests.

After breakfast on board, the party set off for the landing, which was made with comparative ease. The band, with the new instruments supplied by Captain Cochrane and the ADVERTISER, was on hand, and a gathering of some two hundred people were clustered about the arch at the head of the landing bearing the words "Welcome to Molokai." As Kate Field went up the walk she was greeted with patriotic American airs. The Bishop, with the Catholic Brothers who had come to minister to the poor unfortunates of the settlement, went immediately to the church, where a large congregation was gathered for the early morning service. The remainder of the party proceeded to Agent Reynolds's house, where they deposited their goods and chattels and prepared for the work of the day. The Kalaupapa band was stationed in the enclosure, while the Kalaupapa band remained at the church. There was music galore, and all hands appeared in good spirits. It appears to be a very successful tour, and the people were very happy to see the visitors.

By 9 o'clock the usual cavalcade was formed for the trip to Kalaupapa. This was the occasion for Miss Field's first attempt at horseback riding in divided skirts. She decided that the old style is good enough for her. Arriving at the Baldwin Home in Kalaupapa, the visitors found the boys lined up in true military style to receive them, and after passing in review the boys marched away to Kalaupapa to escort the Bishop and the Brothers, who had remained behind. At the Baldwin Home, Brother Dutton was found with his little medicine box making his morning rounds among the sick. He greeted his visitors cordially but could not give them his time and attention until he had visited all the suffering ones of his little community. With Brother Dutton as with all those religious workers at the settlement the comfort of the unfortunate under their care stands first in their thought. Baldwin Home is one of the most attractive spots in the settlement. The dormitories, hospital and school arranged in a hollow square enclose a pretty grass plot dotted here and there with shrubbery and flowers. The grounds have been converted from a rocky waste by the work of the boys, one hour each day under the direction of Brother Dutton. The party went through all the buildings which were found as clean and comfortable as constant and careful care can make them. Brother Dutton's workshop, dispensary and his little cottage home as well as the home of Sisters Crescenta and Vincentia were by no means least in the points of interest. These little homes furnished with what seems to an outsider hardly the necessities of life seem, by virtue of the loving and self-sacrificing labors of the occupants almost like sacred ground. And all about the Home is so scrupulously clean and well appointed in general arrangement that it is only the sadly distorted bodies of the sick that bring one to a realization of the fact of being among a people suffering a living death. In rear of the Home is a garden plot which has been cleared of rocks by the boys and will soon be under cultivation. On every hand were evidences of the efforts of the religious workers to make life as bright and happy as possible.

At the church built by Father Damien and near which is the grave of that noble man, Father Conrad was found awaiting the arrival of the Catholic Brothers. Father Conrad spoke of his proposed departure with regret. He, like his co-workers, has come to look upon the settlement as his second home. On the return to Kalaupapa the visitors witnessed a most interesting and pathetic sight—a procession of some 300 men, women and children formed in line to escort the Brothers to the place where they were to continue the good work of the Sisters. The Kalaupapa band led the way, followed by the boys from the Baldwin Home. Then followed the Bishop, Father Damien, Father Vincent, Father and the Brothers in carriages. Bringing up the rear were fully 200 men and women of the settlement on horseback. The procession made frequent stops along the way, that the more unfortunate might not become exhausted by what was to them a long journey. The people, dressed in their best and decked with leis, were enjoying their gala day as only those can who receive visitors from the outside world only twice a year. When the procession reached Kalaupapa the little church was filled to overflowing with those gathered to take part in the services, after which the Brothers were installed in their new homes.

About noon the party accompanying the Board of Health returned to Kalaupapa, where they found a somewhat sensational state of affairs awaiting them. The surf, which was running low in the morning, had become decidedly formidable, and one of the steamer boats that had brought the lunch on shore had been capsized, dashed against the rocks and Captain Thompson treated to a narrow escape from drowning. How to get the second boat safely through the surf was the next question. The captain and Purser Kelley waited their opportunity and, with the five sturdy native boys, took the boat safely through the breakers amid the cheers of the crowd that had gathered on shore. After luncheon and a trip through the Bishop home for girls, where the loving labors of the Sisters were again evidenced, the visitors began to think of getting home. To get to the steamer from the regular landing was impossible, and it was decided to attempt to get off at Waikolu. Hikiau, a native, volunteered to swim out to the steamer and act as pilot. His daring struggle through the breakers was a feat seldom equaled even in this country of daring and expert swimmers. After the steamer was under way the visitors again mounted their horses, rode back to Kalaupapa and beyond Waikolu only to find the conditions such as to make embarking a dangerous performance. Some of the men got to the boat, but it was out of the question to think of the ladies making the attempt. There was nothing to do but stay all night and hope for the breakers to go down.

Fifteen of the party remaining on shore returned to Kalaupapa and prepared to make a night of it. For food there was some of the luncheon left over and plenty of canned goods at the store. The evening was passed very pleasantly. Prof. Richards and Senator Waterhouse held a largely attended meeting at the Y. M. C. A. and those remaining at the house were serenaded in true Hawaiian style. Bed was made up on the floor and by 10 o'clock the exiled Board of Health with a good portion of the guests were joining their nasal forces in a first-class snooze.

When morning came the surf was worse than during the previous evening. The only way out of the place was to scale the pali and take the steamer on the other side of the island. A light breakfast was served and the party set out on its Sabbath day journey up the cliff. Natives went ahead to prepare the trail, and by 9 o'clock the top of the pali was reached. The climb was a new experience for many, and the beautiful view gained from the heights amply repaid the extra exertion of the overland journey. Arriving at Mr. Meyer's house the wanderers were most cordially received and treated to a splendid dinner. Horses were furnished for those who wished, and the journey to Kaunakakai was resumed.

By 3 o'clock in the afternoon all hands were on board the steamer bound home. They were a little worse for wear, but asserted that they would not have missed the experience for worlds. Even those who were rolled about all night in the steamer said they had a good time. After passing the Molokai lighthouse the Mikahala was sighted, but it was not until the arrival at Honolulu that the party were positive that the Honolulu people wanted to know their whereabouts.

Many words of praise and gratitude were forthcoming as a recognition of the kindness of the Board of Health and Mr. Meyer's family; also of the Sisters and others at the settlement, who did everything within their power to assure the comfort of the members of the expedition.

PLEAD FOR CONSISTENCY.

What the People Think of Thanks-giving Pardons.

MR. EDITOR—Your editorial on the pardoning of a part of the political prisoners yesterday was to the point. Why two, convicted by the military commission as prominent leaders in the rebellion, should be singled out for pardon, and others who were less guilty still remain behind the walls of Oahu prison, is hard to comprehend. Our Council of State should be consistent. It was not the intention of the persons who signed the petition for clemency that only a few favorites be pardoned. It was for all. Let the President again convene the Council and lay before them the matter of pardoning the remaining prisoners immediately. JUSTICE.

A Woman Speaks.

MR. EDITOR—I cannot refrain from thanking you most sincerely for your editorial in yesterday morning's ADVERTISER with regard to the remaining political prisoners. Your principle is sound and consistent, and I hope you will still help, through your valuable paper, to have the doors of Oahu prison opened before long for those left behind. Thanking you once more for your just and manly editorial. I remain,

EVENTS ON MAUI ISLAND.

History of Thanksgiving Re-counted by Rev. Dr. Beckwith

CIRCUIT COURT TERM AT LAHAINA.

Regular Monthly Meeting of Makawao Literary and Social Club—Tax Appeal Board Meets—Pala Plantation to Open a Store—Pookela Church.

MAUI, Nov. 30.—Last evening the pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Baldwin, of Haiku, received as guests the members of the Makawao Literary and Social Club, the occasion being the regular monthly meeting of that society.

Without the red tints of the veranda lights nestling among the green vines showed with pretty effect, despite the brilliancy of the moonlight. Within, during the early part of the evening the attraction centered around the tables upon which were displayed fancy articles offered for sale by the Ladies' Aid Society.

Later on the following "Thanksgiving Program by the Old Folks," in costume, was much appreciated:

1. Quartet—"The Breaking Waves Dashed High"..... Miss Eva Smith
2. Recitation..... Mrs. G. E. Beckwith
3. "Thanksgiving in the Olden Time"..... Mrs. G. E. Beckwith
4. Recitation..... Ethel Taylor
5. Quartet—"The Old House at Home"..... Mrs. Taylor
6. Reading..... "The Microbite Island"..... Mr. Hardy
7. Reading..... "The Microbite Island"..... Mr. Hardy

Both quartets, rendered by Mrs. G. E. Beckwith, Miss Milla Beckwith, Messrs. E. G. and G. E. Beckwith, were received with encores.

Mr. Beckwith's address was a pleasing resume of the history of the New England Thanksgiving, from the time of the landing of the Pilgrims on Plymouth Rock, from the time of Carver, Bradford, Standish and Alden, to the present. During his remarks he expressed a fervent wish that the fair peaks of Hawaii should soon be encircled by the broad land of the stars and stripes—a flag saluted by 15,000,000 of school children.

At the conclusion of the regular program John Hahoe, known to local fame as the Hawaiian dandy, made his little bow and gave an expert performance on the Jew's harp.

Nearly $100 was realized by the sale of fancy articles, which will more than pay for the proposed repairs on the Pala church organ.

STRAY SCRIBBLINGS.

The Hana people and some from the Wailuku side of the island will take the Claudine this afternoon for Lahaina. The jury term opens on December 4th, with forty-two cases (probably more) on the calendar, none, however, causing any great public interest.

On Monday, the 25th, three appeals were heard by the Tax Appeal Board at Makawao court house, and during Tuesday, the 26th, two appeals were decided at the Wailuku court house. The decisions rendered were generally compromises.

Pala Plantation has recently purchased the large store building of the Quong Fong Company and have moved it to a position near their office at Pala. After retitling, the plantation will open a general store, wholesale and retail.

The Pookela native church of Makawao has recently decided not to come under the administration of the Hawaiian Board, but to remain independent.

Thanksgiving Day was generally observed on Maui in a quiet way. Family dinners were frequent. On Sunday, December 1st, Dr. Beckwith will preach his annual "Thanksgiving" sermon at the Pala church.

The fork of the Spreckelsville and Kahului-Makawao roads has been recently moved a half mile or so toward Spreckelsville. This change will allow the plantation to use the gulch land to better advantage.

The Kahului Railroad Company has been making quite an extensive addition to their Wailuku depot.

Tom Rochfort, Wailuku's popular and well-known barber, has returned from his wanderings on the other islands and settled temporarily at Spreckelsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yan, prominent Chinese residents of Makawao, left for a visit to China last week.

Bob English, the Kahului pilot, is getting his steam launch Mohea ready for the sugar season. A new boiler will be put in and the engine repaired. Weather cool and pleasant.

LAHAINA NOTES.

Thanksgiving Day fittingly observed—Baseball and Shooting.

LAHAINA, Nov. 30.—Thanksgiving day was fittingly observed as a holiday by officials and plantations.

During the day the Lahainas and Lahainalunas played their second game of ball witnessed by a large number of spectators. The game was closely contested and well played with Lahaina in the lead up to the seventh inning when an ex-player of Kamehameha took the box for Lahainaluna and somewhat changed the course of events.

The game stood 19 to 20 at the close in Lahainaluna's favor and shows that the Maui boys mean to play ball even if the school team does show a propensity for "kicking" at the decisions of the umpire.

Later on a squad of the Lahaina Rifles met at the range and shot twenty rounds, at 200 yards. The following scores were not up to the average. L. M. Baldwin 79, Dickenson 75,

THANKSGIVING.

SPECIAL NO. 1.

Keep Him Home

If there's one way of inducing a man to stay at home, it's to make home comfortable for him. Just imagine papa, hubby or brother trying to resist the temptation to lay off on one off our

PORTIERE DIVANS

He simply can't do it, and when you own up to him that you only paid for it, if it's hubby, he will pass off into a dream of his bachelor days, only to awake and offer thanks for the great change and comforts of home.

WICKER ROCKERS OR WICKER CHAIRS

Tell him you bought it for only and you will awaken an interest in him for the comforts of life. You will be surprised at the effect.

TRY IT, IT WILL KEEP HIM HOME.
